LIBERTY-PITTSBURGH SYSTEMS, INC. INTRODUCE PRESERVATION KITS

PITTSBURGH, PA – JULY 12, 2007 - Liberty-Pittsburgh Systems, Inc. recently introduced Time In A Box™ Preservation Kits as part of the product line. Liberty-Pittsburgh Systems is now the only distributor in the United States for these kits. Perfect for wedding gowns or heirlooms, the kits are among the safest and most environmentally friendly textile preservation method available today.

The preservation kits are made with acid free, chemical free archival-quality polymer (polymer is a strong material to prevent box from collapsing or crushing over time), where many other preservation kits are made of chemically produced cardboard. The moisture resistant box is also designed so that the folded corners promote airflow so that moisture doesn't get trapped inside. The box closes snugly with no need for tape or glue, as tape or glue can contaminate a garment. The unique aspect of Time In a Box™ is that the chamber can be reopened at any time in order to view or even wear the garments again.

The preservation kits come packaged five kits in a case. Each kit includes:

- An acid-free polymer chamber measuring 34" x 24" x 8".
- An acid-free unbuffered tissue to be placed between layers and amongst folds of the heirlooms.
- A triple-washed unbleached muslin liner to be draped on the inside of the box and folded over the garments.
- A cotton muslin cover to provide a classic, elegant appearance.
- Cotton gloves to wear while handling the garments in order to keep salt and oils from touching them.
